Atheists for Jesus

“Jesus, if he existed (or whoever wrote his script if he didn’t) was surely one of the great ethical innovators of history. The sermon on the Mount is way ahead of its time. His ‘turn the other cheek’ anticipated Gandhi and Martin Luther King by two thousand years.”

– Dr. Richard Dawkins, The God Delusion, p.283

“I think that, actually, Jesus makes a fine hero. I've always thought that Gandhi was about right there. He says, I like your Jesus, it's your Christians that I have trouble with. In fact, we had some discussion of forming a group called Atheists for Jesus.”

- Dr. Daniel Dennett, interview with The Beast, March 2009
The Trilemma

“I am trying here to prevent anyone saying the really foolish thing that people often say about Him: I'm ready to accept Jesus as a great moral teacher, but I don't accept his claim to be God. That is the one thing we must not say. A man who was merely a man and said the sort of things Jesus said would not be a great moral teacher. He would either be a lunatic - on the level with the man who says he is a poached egg - or else he would be the Devil of Hell. You must make your choice. Either this man was, and is, the Son of God, or else a madman or something worse. You can shut him up for a fool, you can spit at him and kill him as a demon or you can fall at his feet and call him Lord and God, but let us not come with any patronising nonsense about his being a great human teacher. He has not left that open to us. He did not intend to.”

– C.S. Lewis, Mere Christianity
The hard sayings of Jesus

Jesus said:

- I am the only way to God (Matt. 11:27, Luke 10:22, John 14:6)
- I have the authority to forgive sin (Mk. 2:1-12, Luke 7:36-40)
- I will suffer for sins and be raised from the dead (Matt. 16:21, Matt. 28:28, Mark. 10:34, Luke 22:20, John 2:19)
Another option?

The biblical Jesus is either:

• God

• an evil, megalomaniacal cult leader

• ... or a legend?
Skepticism about the gospels

• “no television preacher has ever read the Bible... At best, we’ve all read a bad translation—a translation of translations of translations of hand-copied copies of copies of copies of copies, and on and on, hundreds of times” – Kurt Eichenwald, Newsweek, Dec. 23, 2014

• “You are probably familiar with the old birthday party game, 'telephone'... Imagine playing 'telephone' not in a solitary living room with ten kids on a sunny afternoon in July, but over the expanse of the Roman Empire (some 2,500 miles across!), with thousands of participants, from different backgrounds, with different concerns, and in different contexts, some of whom have to translate the stories into different languages over the course of decades. What would happen to the stories?” – Bart Ehrman, Jesus: Apocalyptic Prophet of the New Millennium, 1999, p. 51-52

• [T]hese are composite documents, the final products of long and creative traditions in which old material was reworked and new material interpolated. As they now stand, they are witness first of all to the faith of their individual writers and their late first-century, largely Gentile communities. Only at a distance do they relate to the people and the period they purport to describe” - Paula Fredriksen. From Jesus to Christ, 1988, p. 4

The Trilemma

The biblical Jesus is either:

• God
• or an evil, megalomaniacal cult leader
• ...or a legend?

“Either this man was, and is, the Son of God, or else a madman or something worse. You can shut him up for a fool, you can spit at him and kill him as a demon or you can fall at his feet and call him Lord and God, but let us not come with any patronising nonsense about his being a great human teacher. He has not left that open to us. He did not intend to.” – C.S. Lewis
His Impact
Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied. Blessed are the merciful, for they shall receive mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons of God. Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. – Matt. 5:3-10

But I say to you who hear, Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who abuse you. To one who strikes you on the cheek, offer the other also, and from one who takes away your cloak do not withhold your tunic either. Give to everyone who begs from you, and from one who takes away your goods do not demand them back. And as you wish that others would do to you, do so to them. – Luke 6:27-31
Trilemma: summary

“...So what you’re left with is: either Christ was who He said He was the Messiah or a complete nutcase. I mean, we’re talking nutcase on the level of Charles Manson...The idea that the entire course of civilization for over half of the globe could have its fate changed and turned upside-down by a nutcase, for me, that’s farfetched.” – Bono

Statements from non-Christians

• "Both sides [atheists and Christians] are correct within their worldview... Unless atheists can demonstrate that theism is irrational or that the historical evidence for a material resurrection is lacking, they are unlikely to convince many theists to reject the resurrection. Similarly, Christian apologists need to recognize that, until atheists are shown that theism is plausible, atheists will continue to regard the resurrection as a highly implausible event... I think it is rational to both accept and reject the resurrection." - atheist and founder of infidels.org Jeff Lowder in his online essay "The Historicity of Jesus’ Resurrection"

• “The evidence for the Resurrection is better than for claimed miracles in any other religion. It's outstandingly different in quality and quantity...” - deist Antony Flew, in "Did the Resurrection Happen?: A Conversation with Gary Habermas and Antony Flew" Habermas, Flew, Baggett (2009)

• “I accept the resurrection of Easter Sunday not as an invention of the community of disciples, but as a historical event.” – Jewish scholar Pinchas Lapide in “Jewish monotheism and Christian Trinitarian doctrine: a dialogue.” Lapide and Moltmann, 1981

It is problematic to assert that miracles are impossible

- ‘God cannot perform miracles because natural laws cannot be violated’
- ‘God does not intervene in nature’
- ‘God would not intervene nature’

“I think you should be more explicit here in step two.”
We should retain an open-minded attitude towards miracles

• Agnosticism towards God requires agnosticism towards miracles
• Belief in some miracles does not require belief in all miracles
• We should expect miracles mainly at the ‘great ganglia of history’ (C.S. Lewis)

• Joseph of Arimathea is unlikely to be an invention
• Burial is mentioned in 1 Cor. 15
• The discovery of the tomb by women is unlikely to be an invention
• The inclusion of Mary Magdalene is unlikely to be an invention
• The earliest Jewish polemic against the Resurrection presupposes an empty tomb
• The empty tomb is implied by 1 Cor. 15
• The apostles’ preaching in Jerusalem would have been difficult if the tomb were not empty

Claims of post-mortem appearances

- Jesus appears to multiple people in many settings over many weeks
- The disciples reported touching Jesus and eating with him
- In 1 Cor. 15, Paul reports that Jesus appeared to 500 witnesses at one time, many of whom were still alive at the time of writing
Sincerity of the apostles

- The apostles maintained their belief in Jesus’ Resurrection in the face of intense suffering and persecution.
- We know that at least 4 and possibly as many as 10 of the apostles were killed for their beliefs.
- “It may be taken as historically certain that Peter and the disciples had experiences after Jesus’ death in which Jesus appeared to them as the risen Christ.” – G. Lüdemann, What Really Happened to Jesus?

- Saul of Tarsus, who later became known as Paul, was an intense persecutor of the church.
- While traveling to Damascus he suddenly converted to Christianity.
- In his letter to the Galatians claims that his conversion was due to encountering Jesus.

Improbability of other explanations

• The swoon hypothesis – Jesus did not die on the cross; he merely fainted.

• The reburial hypothesis – Jesus was removed from the tomb on Friday by Joseph of Arimathea.

• The stolen body hypothesis – Jesus’ disciples or his family stole his body.

• The twin hypothesis – Jesus had an identical twin who was mistaken for Jesus after his death.
Dr. Bart Ehrman on the Resurrection

• “Miracles are not impossible. I won't say they're impossible...I'm just going to say that miracles are so highly improbable,... their probability is [so] infinitesimally remote, that we call them miracles.”

• “Let me illustrate by giving you an alternative scenario of what happened to explain the empty tomb...[Outlines stolen body hypothesis]...This is a highly unlikely scenario... but it's more likely than a miracle, which is so unlikely, that you have to appeal to supernatural intervention to make it work.”

• “Suppose Jesus had a twin brother -- nothing implausible! People have twins. [Outlines twin hypothesis]... That's an alternative explanation. It's highly unlikely. I don't buy it for a second, but it's more likely than the idea that God raised Jesus from the dead because it doesn't appeal to the supernatural, which historians have no access to.” – from debate with Dr. William Lane Craig
Dr. Greg Cavin on the Resurrection

• “I’ve given two [alternative explanations]: the extraterrestrial theory and the twin theory; there are others as well”

• “[My challenge to Dr. Craig is to] show us that a resurrection is more probable than a mass hallucination. Do not get me wrong: a mass hallucination is extremely improbable, yet a resurrection from the dead is even more so.”

• “Of course, it’s absurd before we look at the evidence to think that Jesus could have had an unknown twin. That’s highly unlikely. Of course, it’s even more unlikely that God would raise Jesus from the dead.”

• “I argued that even a slight decrease in the entropy of the dead body of Jesus would be something –given the laws of thermodynamics- not that God could not do, but that God would not do... God will not cause the entropy of the universe as a whole to decrease, according to the 2nd law of thermodynamics” – from debate with Dr. William Lane Craig

Jesus’ view of sin:

"do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body in hell.”
- Matt. 10:28

"What comes out of a person is what defiles him. For from within, out of the heart of man, come evil thoughts, sexual immorality, theft, murder, adultery, coveting, wickedness, deceit, sensuality, envy, slander, pride, foolishness. All these evil things come from within, and they defile a person." – Mark. 7:20-23

“those eighteen on whom the tower in Siloam fell and killed them: do you think that they were worse offenders than all the others who lived in Jerusalem? No, I tell you; but unless you repent, you will all likewise perish.”-Luke 13:2-5

The reality of sin

“Are we culpable for all the preventable injury and death that we did nothing to prevent? We may be, up to a point. The philosopher Peter Unger has made a persuasive case that a single dollar spent on anything but the absolute essentials of our survival is a dollar that has some starving child’s blood on it. Perhaps we do have far more moral responsibility for the state of the world than most of us seem ready to contemplate.” – Dr. Sam Harris, “The Limits of Discourse”

“The classical utilitarian regards an action as right if it produces more happiness for all affected by it than any alternative action and wrong if it does not.” Dr. Peter Singer, Practical Ethics, p. 3

“If it is in our power to prevent something very bad happening, without thereby sacrificing anything of comparable moral significance, we ought to do it...The life or death needs of others must take priority... even a bottle of water is a luxury if there is safe drinking water available free.” – ibid p. 199, 213, 215

The doctrine of salvation

Jesus’ view of salvation:

“This is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins.” – Matthew 26:28

“For even the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve others and to give his life as a ransom for many.” – Mark 10:45

“I tell you, [the tax collector] went down to his house justified, rather than the [Pharisee]. For everyone who exalts himself will be humbled, but the one who humbles himself will be exalted.” – Luke 18:14

"The slave does not remain in the house forever; the son remains forever. So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed.” – John 8:35-36
Salvation and justification

• “not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God that depends on faith” – Phil. 3:8-9

• “a person is not justified by works of the law but through faith in Jesus Christ, so we also have believed in Christ Jesus, in order to be justified by faith in Christ and not by works of the law, because by works of the law no one will be justified.” – Gal. 2:16

• “For Christ also suffered for sins once for all, the righteous for the unrighteous, to bring you to God.” – 1 Pet. 3:18
Salvation and sanctification

• “Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation. The old has passed away; behold, the new has come.” – 2 Cor. 5:17

• “Whoever believes in me, as the Scripture has said, ‘Out of his heart will flow rivers of living water.’ Now this he said about the Spirit, whom those who believed in him were to receive” – John 7:38-39

• “he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and blameless before him.” – Eph. 1:4

The doctrine of salvation

“just as hitting home runs is the monopoly of one sport, salvation is the monopoly of one religion. If you see sin as the human predicament and salvation as the solution, then it makes sense to come to Christ. But that will not settle as much as you might think, because the real question is not which religion is best at carrying us into the end zone of salvation but which of the many religious goals we should be seeking.” – Stephen Prothero, God is not one, p. 22
